

Can I Share With You

David Firth

Can I share with you the feels in my heart?
Can I share with you what's tearing me apart?
Can I share with you the happiness that makes my life so sweet?

Can I share with you the times that I am troubled?
Can I share with you when my joy is more than doubled?
Can I share with you the many different feelings in my heart?

And with you, I can let it all outside.
I know it's true; with a friend, you just don't hide
And you're my friend.
And right now I'd like to share that I love you.

Can I share with you when I don't understand
And the times that I don't feel much like a man?
Can I reach for you? Will you gently take my hand?

Can I share with you exactly what I'm thinking?
Can I share with you when I'm high and when I'm sinking?
Can I share with you the many different feelings in my heart?

And will you share with me the many different feelings in your heart?
