

The Body of Love

David Firth

Come and eat. Be with me.
All that I am now is yours.
As we share this meal we are one
One in the Body of Love.

One now in laughter. One in the pain
As we live out the stories of today.
One now in dignity just as you are
A tender voice, a gentle touch
A human heart that's bathed.

Come and eat. Be with me.
All that I am now is yours.
As we share this meal we are one
One in the Body of Love.

One now in with history and what is to be
As we live out the stories of today.
And one in the mystery of
Death and new life
With each choice to give
Each moment lived in
The essence of eternal love.

Come and eat. Be with me.
All that I am now is yours.
As we share this meal we are one
One in the Body of Love.

We are the Body of Love.

Copyright © 1999 by David Firth