

No Longer Servant But Friend

David Alan Firth

Reflecting on, the path you chose...you followed Me at every turn
Making love your goal.

You shared My joy. You born My pain.
You've given Me the best you have when
I called your name.

And we walked together in loneliness.
And we laughed and sang and danced
All hand in hand.
And I love you now with all My heart
And I'll love you without end.
I no longer call you servant but friend.

You make me proud. You always have.
You always sought an opportunity to
Reach out your hand. I live in you. You live in me.
Your life has been a brilliant light
For all to see.

And we walked together in loneliness.
And we laughed and sang and danced
All hand in hand.
And I love you now with all My heart
And I'll love you without end.
I no longer call you servant but friend.

And I know that you have had your doubts
You've been lost a time or two.
But you keep coming back and as a matter of fact
I know that I can count on you.

Let's dream some dreams. How good it could be.
More life, more love, more pain let's try.
You and me.
Let's journey on, I'll lead the way.
Stay close by me. I need you still each and every day.

And we walked together in loneliness.
And we laughed and sang and danced
All hand in hand.
And I love you now with all My heart
And I'll love you without end.
I no longer call you servant but friend.
